

ABSTRACT

A biochip comprising a substrate defining a plurality of fluid holding areas, the fluid holding areas separated by fluid separating elements for preventing mixing of fluids held in the fluid holding areas until the application of pressure to one or more of the 5 fluids.